Stored Product Pests

(Beetles, Weevils, Moths)

Commercial Locations: The elimination and control of stored product pests in a production facility or food storage warehouse requires a specialized service. We will be happy to provide a recommendation and quotation without obligation.

Residential Locations: Occasionally a home will become infested with moths or beetles when a food product has become old. The solution is to find the source and throw it away! Sometimes it is not obvious and sometimes the insects have infested the cracks and crevices of shelves, drawers and cupboards. You need to open every package until you find the source.

A residual insecticide for crawling insects may be applied to the cracks and crevices after all food and dishes are removed. Be sure to follow the label directions. It may have to be repeated several times.
